Sherry Perdue is a retired Civics Teacher, Small Business Owner, Wife, Mother and Committed Community Volunteer. She lives in Alamosa County with her husband, Edward (Eddie) Perdue.

Public service, education and the Preservation of Democracy are at the heart of who Sherry is. As a high school and community college teacher, she was devoted to her students and worked tirelessly to bring an understanding of our history, our government and our Constitution.

As a Small Business owner, she has first hand knowledge of the many issues that our local businesses face and how good policy at the local level can help them sustain their businesses - often on a razor thin profit margin.

Sherry's strong commitment to Alamosa is highlighted by her community service work. She is a member of the Woman's Citizenship Club, RSVP Volunteers and has served as History Day Judge at Adams State and National Civics Bee Judge.

Here are four key community issues—each paired with Sherry’s perspective—to help frame the challenges facing Alamosa County today:

Healthcare Communication Strategy: Establishing a centralized advocacy program to support and inform locals as significant medical service transitions begin in January 2027. Sherry’s dedicated service on the SLV Health Regional Medical Center’s Hospital Patient and Family Advisory Council serves as the vital link to ensuring equitable, high-quality healthcare for all residents throughout the district.

Unified Homelessness Response: Coordinating municipal agencies, charitable organizations, and the public to develop a synergistic, long-term framework for addressing housing instability in Alamosa County.

Data Center Moratorium: Enacting a strategic suspension of new data center developments to allow all partners time to collaborate on a comprehensive, resident-supported growth plan for our jurisdiction.

Surveillance Transparency Review: Evaluating the utility, effectiveness, and civil liberty impacts of observation technologies—including traffic and public monitoring tools—via an open, community-led, and comprehensive auditing procedure.
